Research

Recipient, University at Buffalo Office of International Education Grant (November, 2024) (Social Work Education and the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals: A Comparative Study of the US and Costa Rica Curricula.

Primary Investigator – Kathryn Kendall Institute (CSWE, 2023) – ($10,000) Focus on Haiti: Turning the Lens on Media Advocacy and Global Human Rights Perspectives

Developing curriculum materials (online lesson plan, with recorded video lectures, associated resources, media toolkit and sample assignments) to build the media literacy and media advocacy skills of students, positioning them to better inform audiences, effect change, influence public opinion and policies on global issues. The project further internationalizes the social work curriculum by enhancing students' critical engagement with global issues, helping them make connections to people from other cultures, and enhancing their confidence in using and developing intercultural and interpersonal skills.

Primary Investigator - SUNY Sustainable Village and Learning Center / W. K. Kellogg Foundation Grant ($139,000) 2018-2019

Promote cross-cultural learning and exchange between SUNY and Haitian students.

SUNY and Haitian faculty will develop shared curricula, with a special focus on trauma-informed and rights-based approaches to mental health treatment and social work service delivery. Faculty and students will contribute over time to the development of an online compendium of education and training resources freely available to the community.

Co-investigator (with Elze, D., et. al). US Health Resources and Services Administration ($1,350,00) 2019-2022

Specialized educational programs

Media Literacy and Media Advocacy for Social Work: Turning the Lens on Social Justice, 2023

This teaching resource is designed to prepare students to inform about issues, teaching them to access, critically evaluate and create media that counter misconceptions and more effectively inform and influence policy. The exercises can be used to help students join the public conversation about the issues they care about, and advocate for social change efforts via social media and popular news outlets.

Media Advocacy and the UN Sustainable Development Goals: Living & Leading in a Global World, 2023

Successfully piloted University at Buffalo's new First Year Global Experience, a program designed to attract under-represented students to study abroad. Led a group of twelve students on a study abroad to Costa Rica, with lectures focused on UN Sustainable Development Goals, human rights, and media advocacy.

Peer Support and Mutual Aid Field Placement: An Innovative Response to the COVID-19 Pandemic, 2020

With many students feeling the effects of the current crisis, a field unit focused on peer support and mutual aid was developed. Placement included participation in a training by Dr. Larry Shulman, former Dean and Emeritus Faculty of UB SSW, on The Dynamics and Skills of Leading On-Line Mutual Aid Support Groups for Peers. Participating students were then deployed to provide online support.

Provided ongoing training and supervision for students.

Conversations About Culture: Video and Lesson Plan on Cultural Humility, 2017

This module introduces the concept of cultural humility as a guiding principle for effective cross-cultural communication and collaboration, and can be used as a resource for educators, students planning to study abroad or engage in international fieldwork, faculty engaged in cross-cultural research and partnerships, human service practitioners, educators, and any other interested parties.
